Yaguarete Road

Destination: Iguazú

Description

Ride a mountain bike along a red soil wild trail inside the Iguazu National Park. Starting early in the morning so there are more chance to see wild animals as small mammals, birds and butterflies.

The beginning of the tour is at the Guard Station on the National Route 101. We'll go riding this route for about 2 kilometers. Then we turn to the left to get into the Yaguarete Trail, where we'll ride for 3 km more, ending at the Iguazu River shore. If you are willing, we can continue pedaling.

We'll make a few interpretation stops on the way to recognize wildlife and then we come back to the Station.

Estimated duration: 4 hours.

It includes: transportation from and back to your hotel in Puerto Iguazú, mountain bike, helmet, gloves, insurance, water and cereal bars.

Note: We recommend to wear appropriate clothing for cyclists. Depending on the season, long or short trousers with sheepskin will be best. Gloves and goggles are also suggested to ensure a safer and more comfortable ride

Difficulty: medium/high.
